Minister Commends Management's Development Drive, Promises Assistance

Minister of Health, Professor Isaac Adewole has expressed satisfaction over the initiative of the Management of the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital to expand service points in order to render improved and fast health care services to its growing number of clients.

Professor Adewole spoke while laying the foundation stone of the Hospital's Accident and Emergency Complex extension.

"CMD, I like your Management's initiative, I will see how I can support you on this project," he said.

The Minister charged the firm handling the construction to ensure the highest quality of work on the project adding that the Ministry would not take kindly to shoddy jobs in any of the nation's hospitals across the Country.

Earlier, the Chief Medical Director of the Hospital, Professor Bissallah Ekele had told the Minister that the Accident and Emergency Unit expansion project had become inevitable due to the increasing number of clients which the existing structure could no longer cope.

He thanked the Minister for his pledge to assist the hospital in the execution of the project.

UATH to Get Ultra-Modern ENT Complex

The University of Abuja Teaching Hospital is to have an Ultra-Modern Otorhinolaryngology (ENT) and Audiology Complex that would be a referral and research centre for the West African sub-region.

The project estimated at one point two million United States of America dollars ($1.2m) will be completed in 24 months and is supported by Starkey Hearing Foundation in the United States of America.

Welcome to the first edition of our BULLETIN for the year 2019 (Volume 2, No. 1). We have changed our publisher and that has given this edition (and subsequent ones) a crispy look. Next level!

The year 2018 ended with the Honourable Minister of Health, Professor Isaac Folorunso Adewole, visiting our Hospital to lay the foundation stone of the Accident and Emergency Unit extension and to formally open the House Officers' Quarters. Our ace camera man – Mr Sunday Isa has a photo splash of the events. This was immediately followed by the visit of another high profile guest, the Founder of the Starkey Hearing Foundation, USA, William Franklin Austin, who laid the foundation stone of an Ultra-modern ENT and Audiology Center, courtesy

At the foundation laying ceremony, the Founder, Starkey Hearing Foundation, William Franklin Austin said he was particularly delighted to have the project in Nigeria in view of the Country's leadership role, not only in the West African Sub-region but also in the continent of Africa.

He thanked UATH management for providing the enabling environment. William Franklin Austin said the gift of hearing to of the efforts of the Head of Department of Otorhinolaryngology – Professor Titus Ibekwe. We also have pictures of the colourful event.

There are good news from our training programs! All the candidates from our Post Basic Critical Care Nursing School that sat their final Council examination were successful (100% pass) with one Distinction. Congratulations to both staff and students for this feat!

We also recorded passes at the Fellowship examinations of the National Postgraduate Medical College of Nigeria and the West African Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons. The 59th Annual General Conference of the West African College of Surgeons that was held in Dakar, Senegal in January 2019 produced a new Secretary General after a keenly contested election. He is our own, Consultant Paediatric Surgeon, Professor Philip Mshelbwala. We congratulate him and wish him a successful tenure as he manages the College Secretariat. We also had Fellows from our Hospital that were elected to the College Council and other Faculty Board positions. A good harvest indeed! It was also a peaceful transition as Professor King David Terna Yawe (Nigeria) handed over the Presidential medal to the new President, Professor Serigne Gueye of Senegal after a very successful tenure. We are very proud of Prof. Yawe's achievements.

The University of Abuja Teaching Hospital has been nominated to participate in the African Surgical Outcomes Study (ASOS-2). The Site

Africa, where it is estimated that five point three percent of the world's population suffers from disabling hearing loss, was his ultimate goal. In a remark, the Chief Medical Director, University of Abuja Teaching Hospital, Professor Bissallah Ekele said he was delighted to have the project sited in the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital. He said, when completed and put to use, the facility would not only provide job opportunities for professionals and support staff but Lead Investigate is the immediate past Head of Department, Orthopedics and Trauma, Dr Zunnan Songden. Also, Professor O. Aisuodionoe-Shadrach, Consultant Urologist, is the Principal Investigator of the Men of African Decent and Carcinoma of the Prostate (MADCaP) Study. We appreciate them for these international collaborations.

Finally, the SERVICOM Unit, under the leadership of Dr. Bob Ukonu, organized the 2018 UATH Staff Award on the 21st February 2019, to celebrate creativity and excellence. We have all the names and photo shots of winners in this Bulletin, which can be called a 'Collector's Item'! And the Board Chairman, Dr. Sam Sam Jaja, has directed that we create a special board in the Administrative Block to display their names and pictures till the end of the year, when new winners shall emerge. We shall do just that!

On the down side, the fraudsters that opened a Facebook account using my details are still active despite security agents' efforts to track them down. They ask potential victims to pay some amount of money for employment or pay registration fees to supply laptops to the Hospital. They use these phone numbers: 09029503744; 07082341308 and 07087423710. And they use the name of one Dr. Egbe as their contact. Again, am not on Facebook or messenger, they are scammers. Ignore them!

Happy reading and God bless. ■ would also reduce medical tourism. The Chief Medical Director thanked Starkey Hearing Foundation for considering the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital as home to this project and pledged the support of Management of the Hospital to the full realization of the objectives of the project.

Earlier, the Head, Department of ENT, University of Abuja Teaching Hospital, Professor Titus Ibekwe said the Centre would serve in the provision of patients needed for

Minister Inaugurates House Officers' Quarters, Demands Dedication to Duty

Minister of Health, Professor Isaac Adewole has charged House Officers at the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital to reciprocate efforts by the Management to make their mandatory one year house job stress free by rendering dedicated service to the Hospital.

Professor Adewole gave the charge while inaugurating a thirty-four-room House Officers' Quarters constructed and equipped for the use of the young doctors by the Management of the Hospital.

The Minister commended the Management for providing such a tastefully furnished apartment for the young doctors.

Earlier, the Chief Medical Director, Professor Bissallah Ekele had told the Minister that the building was an addition to an existing one constructed to expand the number of in-take of house officers annually.

He commended the Board of the Hospital for giving the project the desired support.

In an address of appreciation, Representative of the House Officers, Dr. Emmanuel Oluma, thanked the Minister, Board and Management for making the welfare of his colleagues a priority.

He gave an assurance that the House officers would reciprocate with greater dedication to duty.

The event was witnessed by Members of the Board of the Hospital, led by its Chairman, Dr. Sam Sam Jaja.

students' practical and proper training as well as for the procurement of quality hearing assistive devices in the West African Sub-region.

Professor Ibekwe said that staff of the ENT department of the Hospital were excited about the project and would do everything possible to ensure its take-off and sustainability. ■

We are Proud of Your Team, Says Board

The Board of the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital has poured encomiums on members of staff that successfully carried out the separation of a conjoined twin in the hospital for making the hospital Board, Management and staff very proud. Chairman of the Board, Dr. Sam Sam Jaja who led other members of the Board in turns to congratulate the staff, said he was particularly happy that such a feat, the first in the history of the hospital, happened at the time of the Board under his Chairmanship.

He commended the staff for the team work and said it should be sustained for more and greater exploits that would permanently put the hospital in the world map as a centre of medical excellence.

The Chairman gave an assurance that the Board would continue to provide the policy framework that would make for excellence in service delivery.

Other members of the Board took turns to salute and commend the team, expressing how excited they were on the news of the successful surgery.

Members of the team, who were each presented a Certificate of Excellence, were further assured of a ground breaking reception by the Board.

In a vote of thanks, the Lead Surgeon and Consultant Paediatric Surgeon, Dr. Samson Olori thanked the Board and Management for their support which made the surgery a success. ■

“You Have Done Well,” Mgt tells Out-Sourced Services’ Managers

Crown Security, ICON and Ochija, the three companies providing out-sourced services in the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital, have been commended for their performances in the year 2018.

Chief Medical Director of the Hospital, Professor Bissallah Ekele, leading other members of the Top Management Committee at a reception for staff of the companies, noted with satisfaction the reduced rate of theft and the improved cleanliness of the hospital during the year.

He also noted the improvement in service delivery by ICON in porter services during the year.

The Chief Medical Director charged the companies to continue to strive for excellence in service delivery.

Other members of the Top Management Committee who took turns to address the gathering were full of appreciation for the workers for their commitment and dedication to duty.

They also stressed the need for the staff to make conscious efforts to enhance their performances in the years ahead.

In a remark on behalf of the out-sourced services provider, the Manager, Crown Security, Mr. Sunday Omagbon thanked the Management of the Hospital for its unwavering commitment to excellence and welfare of staff of out-sourced services companies through the prompt payment of salaries.

He said the Management and staff of the companies were particularly happy that the Top Management of the Hospital recognized and its appreciative of their modest contributions.

He gave an assurance that the out-sourced service providers would improve on their performances in the new year. ■

Works and Engineering Dept. Receives Accolade

Works and Engineering Department has been commended for its performance in 2018. At a very colourful ceremony to honour the Management and Staff of the department, the Chief Medical Director of the Hospital, Prof. Bissallah Ekele said the successes recorded by the Hospital during the year were partly to improved service delivery by the Works and Engineering department.

He said this made the department the strongest link in the service delivery chain of the hospital in the year 2018.

Prof. Ekele emphasized the need for staff of the department to be more passionate in carrying out their duties in the years ahead in order to maintain this enviable position.

The Chief Medical Director said he was aware of the constraints in the department and directed that the Head of Department, Engr. Mangut Bala pencil down the most challenging ones for immediate action by the Top Management.

Also addressing the staff, Head of Finance and Accounts Department, Mr. Nimfa Zwalbong reminded the staff of the adage “to whom much is given, much is expected,” and enjoined them to always reciprocate the kind disposition of the Hospital’s Top Management Committee by giving their best at all times.

In separate remarks, the staff thanked the Chief Medical Director and the Top Management Committee for rescuing the department from the state of despair and decay in the past years.

In a vote of thanks, the Head of Department, Engr. Mangut Bala thanked the Chief Medical Director and the Hospital’s Top Management Committee for ensuring that the department performed optimally in 2018.

He said this was made possible by the exemplary leadership of the Chief Medical Director. Prof. Ekele and pledged the commitment of staff of the department to higher performance in the years ahead. ■

Hearing Loss: Early Detection is Key to Management, Prof. Ibekwe

The Head, Department of Otorhinolaryngology, ENT, University of Abuja Teaching Hospital, Professor Titus Ibekwe says it is estimated that about twelve point four million people suffer hearing loss in Nigeria. He stated this while making a presentation on the Prospects of William Franklin Austin Institute of Audiology, at the University of Abuja Teaching Hospital.

He said the burden of disabling hearing impairment was highest in sub-Saharan Africa which is home to Nigeria.

The Professor of ENT said the challenge was further compounded by the low figure of experts in the field.

According to Professor Ibekwe, there were as low as two hundred ENT surgeons in the country with one hundred and ninety-nine in training and seven consultants per tertiary institution compared to centres abroad with over sixty ENT surgeons. He said over-coming the challenges of hearing impairment require early detection and rehabilitation. According to professor Ibekwe, "this way, the challenges can readily be addressed."

He said the Institute of Audiology when completed and put to use would among others produce speech therapists to complement the service of audiologists.

Professor Ibekwe called on young medical doctors to consider specializing in ENT in order to bridge the widening gap between patients and care-givers. ■
